Is the dream of legalizing California sports betting completely lost? There are a few lawmakers in the Golden State still trying to make California online sports betting a reality.

Opposition from local tribes and lobby groups have made it increasingly difficult for California sports betting legislation to gain any kind of traction, and now 2024 is the absolute earliest that California sports betting could get the green light.

There is also a chance that California sports betting could be headed for another vote.

If Oakland is the +200 underdog, you could win $200 on a $100 bet if that side wins the game.

Outright: If you wanted to bet on golf or car racing this weekend, this would be the betting style for you.

Futures: You aren't limited to wagering on games happening right now.

Football season is still a couple of months away, but you can place a futures bet now on which team you think will win their division next winter.

Where to find the best California sports betting advice

Every day, our football experts offer their personal forecasts for dozens of competitions, all of which are fully reflected and updated in real time according to live events.

Why do we offer Free Football Betting Tips

Do not hesitate to look into the emotional aspects that can surround a match - whether it is a derby, a match between two historic rivals (such as Liverpool and Tottenham) or a match between two teams playing aggressive football, all will inevitably impact the success of your football predictions.

Take the timing of the match into account
Another factor that should not be underestimated when establishing your forecast is the timing of the match in relation to the schedules of both teams.

Before placing your football bet, do not forget to check the fixture calendars of both teams concerned - they may have a European Cup match to play a few days later, or even a domestic Cup Final.

In the event of more important fixtures in the future, coaches will often rotate their squad to prioritise the bigger games, which would affect the chances of victory for both sides.

Once you have taken all these steps into account in your analysis and have chosen your prediction, you will then have to determine the odds that will be set by bookmakers for your bet.
