Before placing your bet, you must decide which game to bet on, the team you want, the number of points you believe will be scored, and how much money you're willing to wager.

The moneyline shows how much money you will win if your bet pays off.

Spread betting involves one team being given a certain amount of points while the other team loses an equal amount of points.

5, you can bet on whether you think the combined score will be over or under 44 points.

However, winning two of three games in a parlay would equal a loss instead of a potential profit if you were to place three individual straight bets.

These wagers are typically based on the same guidelines as full-game straight bets, but they either end or begin at halftime or each quarter.

As long as you are of age and in a legal betting area, you can place bets with the push of a button from wherever you are located.

Most online sportsbooks allow you to bet through a website or mobile app.
