United States investment firm Tiger Global has backed Indian gaming start-up Dream11, the lead sponsor of India's national cricket team.

On Tuesday, Indian Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman, who chairs the goods and services tax council, made up of state finance ministers, said the decision to tax online gaming was reached after extensive discussions.

Industry executives said they may have to pass on the additional costs to their customers by raising the prices of games.

The proposal "will bring game of skill at par with wagering contracts, which are in the nature of gambling and betting", said Kishore Kumar, indirect tax lead at Taxmann.

In fantasy cricket games on Dream11, users create their teams by paying as little as 8 rupees (10 US cents) with a total prize pool of 1.

The change announced on Tuesday will impose a 28 percent tax on the entire amount collected from players in every game.
